Marriage and Divorce
$1,000,000 a Day
The Average Farmer
The Power of Terror

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Too many quiet marriages, says the Rev. Dr. Stetson, director of New York's Trinity Church, that look from Broadway down Wall street to a convenient dock on the East river.

Dr. Stetson fears that we may imitate Soviet Russia, "where divorce is granted without question," and that our government will some day make polygamy legal. He also deplores the power of sex appeal.

Scientist, on the other hand, says "one danger threatening the human race is the possible dying out of that same sex appeal, in which case there would be no more children and the race would fade away."

What power was it, or what appeal, that in Dr. Stetson's opinion brought about the marriage of Adam and Eve long ago?

Change from one type of car to another, with no cars selling in the meanwhile, is said to cost Henry Ford $100,000 a day. Meanwhile General Motors is selling more than 100,000 Chevrolts a month.

Fortunately for him, Henry Ford can afford to lose $100,000 a day for a while, as he always keeps about $400,000,000 cash in the bank.

There will be a big and interesting fight in automobiles when the new Ford car is unveiled.

How would you like to be the average American farmer. His farm is 315 acres. His investment $16,208. His average net return for 1926 was $1,332.

He could make more than that driving a street car, getting regular sleep, not worrying about weather, lame horses, sick cows, rust on wheat, bugs on potatoes, blight on orchards, etc.

The puzzling question is why to a farmer

The British General Reginald E. H. Dyer, just dead, put down the famous Amritsar rebellion in the Punjab.

General Dyer ordered his men to fire without warning into a threatening mob, in India, and continued the firing until 379 were killed and 1,200 wounded.

General Dyer was forced to retire from the army, but a fund of $130,000 was presented to him by British admirers. He had announced his intention "to strike terror into the whole of the Punjab," and he did it with only fifty men.

The British practice and approve of drastic measures when they seem necessary.

One black hole of Calcutta was enough.

In Washington, Mrs. Fader spanked her three-year-old son, Bruce, because he would climb the White House iron fence. During the spanking her $3,000 diamond necklace was lost.

SHARKEY'S LENA IN WOODS

LUMBERMEN AND ELITE MINGLE AT BACKWOODS WEDDING OF STILLMAN

Grand Anse, Que., July 26 (U.S.).—Peasants of the North Country mingled with blue-blooded aristocrats of New York and Chicago here today at the woodland wedding of James A. ("Bud") Stillman, Jr., heir to a $60,000,000 estate, and Miss Lena Viola Wilson, a simple, pretty girl of the forest, who was employed formerly in his mother's home.

Timber cutters in canvas and society leaders in handsome motor boats sped up the river early this morning on the 50-mile jaunt that separates the Stillman lodge from the fringe of "civilization."

Social regulars and inhabitants of the Northland, from the forests of Carleton Place to the general grazing country of the Seigneurie of Belknap, staged a friendly race of motor boats to Grand Anse. The wedding is to be the most elaborate ceremony ever witnessed in this part of the world. In the midst of a forest of evergreen, the Rev. Ephraim L'Ami and his assistants will unite "Bud" Stillman in holy wedlock with his Northland princess.

The dove of peace had spread its wings over the course of young love as the wedding day dawned over the mountain tops of Madeline.

ARREST POLICEMAN ON LIQUOR THEFT CHARGES

Patrolman Joseph D. Parker, one of the best known officers of the West Roxbury division, was placed under arrest and locked up in a cell of his own station today on a charge of larceny.

The warrant, which was from the Ayer district court, charges Parker with this theft of a formula for making liquor, a quantity of liquor, a pair of trousers, $16, a watch and chain, all the property of H. Flint Richards of Littleton. He was taken into custody by sergeant Tilton upon his return from morning duty.

Another man, said to be involved, but police refused to make known his name on the ground that he is innocent.

A page from the old Kentucky moonshine history reads the circumstances of Parker's trouble as unraveled by Sergeant Tilton. It seems the "other man" was working on the Richards farm in Littleton. Please Turn to Page 2, Column 7.

OUT OF WILDS IN PUMPKIN COACH

Bud Stillman and Lena Wilson, the backwoods sweetheart he takes for his bride today at a picturesque marriage ceremony in the wilds of Quebec.

They are shown here with Fr. Ephraim L'Ami, the missionary priest who will make them man and wife.

This picture was taken a few days ago while the clergyman was bestowing a presumpit blessing on the young millionaire and his bride-to-be.

Their romance is an idyll of the Canadian wilderness.

Family dissensions have all been settled for their happy wedding day.

COURTNEY'S HOP FROM IRELAND AGAIN PUT OFF

Southampton, Eng., July 25 (U.S.A.).—Weather conditions were again unfavorable today and there was no immediate prospect of Captain Frank T. Courtney taking off on his transatlantic flight, which will be made from Valentia, Ireland.

A depression was reported over Western Ireland with a southwest wind blowing from thirty to thirty-five miles an hour.

N. Y. MILLIONS FACE CAR STRIKE AT MIDNIGHT

New York, July 26 (A.P.).—With employees and companies still at large, hundreds, New York's $200,000 daily underground and overhead railways must be prepared today for another mid-Summer strike.

Officials of the Interborough Rapid and the Brooklyn-Manhattan transit companies, who operate the network of transportation lines affected, continued mustering substitute workers to man trains if members of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees, a union the companies have refused to recognize, carry out their threat to strike.

A strike vote, if other scheduled parties fail, is to be taken at the Brooklyn Labor Lyceum at midnight tonight when the "swing cross" is relieved for the day. A strike would, if voted at this meeting, become effective at once, and emergency transportation would provide the means of getting to and from work.

Arrangements have been made for 1,000 extra buses to parallel the East and West side subways, while municipal ferries will be run the length of Manhattan on the Hudson River.

SHARKEY TO REMAIN IN HOSPITAL FOR 10 DAYS; SUFFERS HEMORRHAGES

Jack Sharkey was being treated today in St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Brighton, after being stricken by four hemorrhages over the week-end.

The hemorrhages occurred following Sharkey's return to Boston from New York, where he was knocked out in seven rounds by Jack Dempsey.

Dr. Martin H. Spelman, surgeon in charge of the accident service at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, issued the following statement:

"Sharkey has several severe bruises on the right groin. He has had discharges of several ounces of blood. He will be under treatment for ten days more."

It was learned today that Sharkey suffered the first hemorrhage Saturday morning.

VANZETTI WILL ARGUE FOR LIFE WITH FULLER

Planning a vigorous argument for life and freedom, Bartolomeo Vanzetti was today feverishly honed in the cell at State Prison, while Nicola Sacco, visited by his wife and two small children, was found to be depressed and almost dazed by the effects of the ten-day fast.

Vanzetti was eagerly awaiting for Governor Fuller to return to resume their interview, which was interrupted last week. He was also preparing a statement for the public to justify the hunger strike of himself and Sacco.

When his personal argument will be presented, Vanzetti will be able to explain to the public the reasons for his fast. He is not alone in the stand in defense of life and freedom.

AMBASSADOR HERRICK IS OPERATED ON AGAIN

Cleveland, July 25 (A.P.).—Mayor T. Herrick, 79-year-old United States Ambassador to France, was operated on again today, the second time within ten days. Surgeons who attended him said he reacted well and more gravely.

On complications are feared. The Ambassador recovered much from the first operation July 11 which was for a shoulder ailment. It was declared minor in nature. The day's operation was almost a success.

VANZETTI WILL PLEAD FOR LIFE

Governor Funes interviewed several witnesses today, in an extension of his investigation of the case, while his advisory investigating committee, having finished hearing witnesses and attorneys, plunged into its deliberations with the hope of making a report to the Governor as soon as possible. The date set for the execution is only two weeks away. The men will probably hear their fate within a week.

One of those who appeared before Governor Fuller was State Representative Lewis R. Sullivan of Dorchester, who told reporters at the State House today that he was going to tell of words he heard Judge Webster Thayer use in the Dedham court house during the trial.

HEARS THAYER'S REMARKS.

"I overheard Judge Thayer speaking to Attorney McAnarney of the defense," said Sullivan. "He said, 'Well, Jerry, your short-haired women

"Judge Thayer was walking around arrogantly in his robes of office, and

Sullivan said he also intended to warn the Governor to take precautions to protect the lives of himself and family. A similar warning came today from Professor Frederick L. Anderson of Newton Theological Institution.

A petition bearing 10,000 signatures, asking freedom for the condemned pair, was received from Belgium.

Bostonians, well acquainted by now with marvels of the air and men whose daring is winning fame for America above the clouds, will have an opportunity tomorrow to inspect the huge dirigible, RS-1, the air pride of the Army. While not as large as the Los Angeles is or the Shenandoah, was, she nevertheless is a giant. The RS-1 which cruised from Langley Field, Va., to Washington today, will go to Lakehurst, N. J., and leave the latter place tomorrow for a cruise over Boston, spending the day here.

NOTED SWIMMER DROWNS

DIES FIVE WEEKS BEFORE WEDDING DAY
Miss Marie Strupney, 23, of No. 41 Maple avenue, Brighton, who at 16 swam Shirley Gut, was drowned in South Congamond Lake, Southwick, when she became entangled in grass. She was a stenographer at the registry of motor vehicles, and was to have been married in September.

FOUR HELD FOR SLASHING MAN 12 TIMES

As the aftermath of a knife-and-iron-pipe battle at No. 509 Albany street, four men were held today in Roxbury Court on charges of assaulting Albert J. Brown, a chauffeur. Mary Brown, his sister, twenty-five-year-old John Dacey, grandfather, and Josephine Dacey, a aunt.

Brown received twelve stabs or slashes, one knife thrust missing his heart by a fraction of an inch, and another slicing his lower lip in two parts.

The men arrested were Thomas Rowan, Peter F. Maher, Daniel T. Burke and Leland Nickerson, all of Roxbury, and when the probation officers produced records of the men Judge Haydon exclaimed:

"These cards show crime, crime, crime!"

Each defendant pleaded not guilty to assault and was held in $2,500.

Because of the condition of Brown, whose wounds may develop blood poisoning, according to his physician, police secured a continuance.

The mad battle occurred in Brown's home after the four men walked into the house on a pretext of hiring him to take them riding. Brown claims he does not know his assailants.

According to the police, the real reason for the assault was that the quartet mistook Brown for a policeman who had "turned them up" in connection with the case of a girl.

The four men began slashing with knives on entering the house and Brown had suffered most of his wounds before he was able to seize a length of iron pipe and defend himself. The sister, aunt and grandfather were pummeled in attempting to exit Brown.

NAB 2 RACING IN BORROWED CARS

Speeding along the South Boston strandway at seventy miles an hour in "misappropriated" automobiles, two Roxbury young men were arrested by Patrolman Robert J. Fitzgibbons of Division 12 today.

In South Boston Court they gave their names as Edgar J. Wiley of Humboldt avenue, Roxbury, and John J. Miller of Bowler street, Roxbury. Wiley was charged with racing and with using an automobile without authority. Miller was accused of operating without a license, with racing and using a car without authority. Both pleaded not guilty and their cases were continued to July 25.

According to Officer Fitzgibbons, Wiley took from the garage where he is employed the machine of Herbert Walbridge of Edgemoor street (Dorchester), and with Miller started for a race.

Reaching a parked car, they started and Miller drove it away, Fitzgibbons said. Arriving at the strandway, the two youths began a race which ended when Fitzgibbons overhauled them in another car after they had slowed down. The car said to have been taken by Miller was the property of Hugh Garrity of Washington street, Roxbury.

WHALEN FLAYS OFFICIAL FOR SLIGHTING VETS

Charging that George H. Johnson, director of public relations of Boston, had insulted wounded veterans at the Naval Hospital and citizens of Chelsea, Mayor John J. Whalen of that city today demanded his resignation.

Mayor Whalen declared that Johnson's handling of the reception to Colonel Lindbergh, as far as Chelsea was concerned, was disgraceful and disrespectful.

He suggested that after resigning Johnson should purchase a book of etiquette and learn what a public apology.

The chief executive of Chelsea charged that Johnson failed to take Lindbergh through the grounds of the hospital as wounded veterans in the rear wards light sea him, and his failure to do so, the automobile in which Mayor Whalen was riding nearly caused an accident.

"Mayor Malcolm Nichols is a good fellow, but the salute for a new Grover Whalen for the city of Boston to handle public receptions and celebrations, the better of Mayor Nichols and the people of Boston will be," said Mayor Whalen.

It had been rumored between the Mayor's office of Chelsea and the reception committee in Boston that Colonel Lindbergh would be driven through the grounds of the Chelsea Naval Hospital, so those confined in the rear wards would have an opportunity of seeing the air hero.

Some 150 wounded and bed-ridden veterans who had been rejecting for several days at the thought they would see the first aviator to span the Atlantic were keenly disappointed.

MAD DOG SCARE ROUTS CROWD

A little collie, terrorized by children in his master's store, and running into Skollay Square at midnight to escape his tormentors, became more frightened as automobiles honked at him, and ran amuck around the square at top speed, while scores of men and women, alarmed at the shout of "mad dog," sought refuge in doorways.

The dog was apparently frothing the mouth, though this was probably from his own exertions.

He was finally captured by Patrolman Werners and Traffic Officer Brown, who restored him to his owner.

TELLS KIWANIS CLUB OF NEGLECTED CHILDREN

"Suppose you take a little boy, and your mother turned you out of the house, and you couldn't get anything to eat but what the neighbors gave you, or what you could find in the ash cans?" This was the question asked by Miss Frances H. Mayer, extension secretary of the Massachusetts Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children, during a talk today before the Boston Kiwanis Club.

The members heard a heart-rending story of the underprivileged child and the work that the society is doing. Miss Mayer said: "These children under the care of the society are victims of cruel neglect and shame. In this enlightened day it does not seem possible that there is need for this society, yet during 1926 1,200 children in Boston alone were helped by the organization."

BRANDED AS COWARDS IN DEATH OF WOMAN
Seattle, Wash., July 26 (A.P.).—F. Craig Nelson, wealthy Seattle stockman and broker, and Captain A. F. Pell and E. E. Barrington, yachtmen, were branded by a coroner's jury as cowards and held morally but not criminally responsible for the death of Miss Violet Maudsley, nurse and dancing teacher, who presumably was drowned when she fell from Nelson's yacht here after a liquor party Wednesday. Nelson, however, was held in $10,000, but the other two were freed.

New York, July 24.—The blessings and hopes of two nations will be given William Randolph Hearst's new ship that has home and return for its goal is christened next Sunday afternoon at Roosevelt Field. Italian ambassador to America, Giacomo De Martino, will represent his country at the christening of the man-made bird which will be flown by Lloyd Berland and James Dewitt Hill.

U. S. TO NAME SPONSOR.

The American government's representative at the christening will be announced later. Ambassador De Martino, in his telegraphic acceptance of the invitation to represent Italy, said: "Director of flight for Mr. Hearst: 'Many thanks for your kind invitation. I will be delighted to attend the ceremony. Glad to take this occasion for bringing my wishes and expressing my feelings of admiration for the new marvelous initiative of American aviation which will strengthen the bonds of friendship between United States and Italy.'"

PUBLIC INVITED.

An honorary committee, including prominent Americans and Italians of New York City, will also attend the christening. The public is invited.

Following the christening program, Berland and Hill will drive Old Glory into the air so all may see the single-motored plane which soon will point its nose toward the East.

COOLIDGE FIND
HOLIDAY GREATBy JAMES T. WILLIAMS, JR.
Editor of Universal Service.

Washington, July 25.—To a few personal friends spending the summer here with whom they keep in touch by correspondence, President and Mrs. Coolidge have confided the interesting information that they are enjoying their Summer in the Black Hills of South Dakota more than they have enjoyed any other time since they entered the White House.

Not only is the climate of the Black Hills soothing to the Coolidges, but they are especially charmed by the simple life lived by the people of South Dakota. They are also very deeply touched by the unadorned welcome and the genuine hospitality which they have received from the people of the Black Hills and the First Lady of the Land.

Although the work of the President and Mrs. Coolidge is a tremendous responsibility, they find the dog days of the summer in the White House, for

BRIDE OF 15 BECOMES
STEPMOTHER TO SEVEN

Midford, Me., July 24 (A.P.).—Through a marriage ceremony performed at St. Joseph's Church today, a fifteen-year-old bride, Marie Chase, becomes the stepmother of seven children. Her husband, Alfred Cadorette, is thirty-three years old.

One thing, they are entertaining much more informally than is ever possible in Washington. Most of the visitors to the White House have been asked to dine either for the measure of their company or because they are in the line, their advice, and their suggestions have been given by the President and Mrs. Coolidge.

Then, too, it has been a surprise to Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge to find how much at home they feel among their Summer neighbors. The truth is that the Coolidges find it hard to believe that they are so far away from Vermont as the railway guides say they are. This is an experience that reinforces a favorite theory of the President even when he enters public eye, that the people of the United States are much more nearly one people than many of their politicians like to admit.

You hear some criticism of the President, even here at the home of the Government, for going so far West as South Dakota to spend the summer. Some Washingtonians would much prefer to see him and Mrs. Coolidge at the dog days nearer the capital.

SURRENDERS IN PERJURY CASE

New York, July 24 (A.P.).—Four persons on their way to court today were started when William Burke, superintendent of the United States Rubber Company building at 11th Broadway, leaped to his death from the 28th floor.

The body, which landed on the sidewalk, just missed striking several persons. A 35-year-old receiver in a boiler was found on the body. Burke, who was 42 years old and married, lived in Brooklyn.

ARMY MAJOR URGES BIGGER AIRPORT

DIE, I A LAWRENCE
BOY, IN N. Y. AUTO CRASH

New York, July 26 (A.P.)—Two boys were killed, a third is believed to be dying, and two others were slightly injured today when a touring car crashed into a telephone pole.

at West New Brighton, N. Y. Joseph O'Brien, thirty-four years old, an orderly in Seaside Hospital, Staten Island, whose home city was Lawrence, Mass., and Joseph Merdith, aged forty, also an orderly, were killed. The driver, Joseph Klein, a waiter at Seaside Hospital, was injured slightly and was arrested, charged with homicide.

LARGER FIELD IS NEEDED FOR TAKE-OFFS

Major Ira Longanecker, U. S. A., in command of aviation in the First Corps Area, in endorsing the drive for a bigger and better Boston airport writes:

Practically everything that makes for the betterment of commercial aviation assists military aviation in a like manner and we believe that is a very good anchor always to have to seaward.

By MAJOR IRA LONGANECKER, Ranking Aviation Officer in the First Corps Area.

Terminal facilities for airplanes require large areas, and this would make it prohibitive if each company or concern had to provide its own individual landing fields. The factor entering into the terminal facility proposition is the economy of land. All large cities would find it difficult to provide several large landing areas, and the expense would be prohibitive.

Airports and airports may be considered similar in many respects. First, that each should be available for all kinds of carriers; furthermore, that airports and airports must be kept in reserve for something else as, for instance, city development, manufacturing concerns or what not.

It is believed absolutely imperative that an airport should be set aside and, at the primary, as such other use should be in connection with aviation.

Chamberlain and Maitland and other fliers are bringing to the attention of the American people the use of commercial aviation since its first use by the Wright brothers in 1903. Of course, the way developed the military and of aviation to a greater extent than would have been by any other means.

There are five primary requisites of an adequate airport—size, accessibility, approachability, not interfered with by other developments, and a possibility of growth and needs.

Longanecker's flight emphasized very greatly the first requirement of an adequate airport, i. e., its size. An airplane with long distance and weight carrying powers must have a landing and take-off field of sufficient size. It should be remembered that the wheels of Longanecker's plane did not leave the ground until it had traveled approximately 3,500 feet.

FOR THE TAKE-OFF

This was due to the tremendous load of fuel which it was necessary for him to carry for the long flight to Paris. The size of the field must be large enough to allow the plane to take-off, therefore the landing can be effected in a shorter area than the take-off, therefore the use of fuel determines the size of the field.

After a heavily loaded plane has taken off, the approachability of the field is emphasized. A plane does not obtain an elevation of several hundred or a thousand feet immediately the wheels leave the ground. It is a gradual climb, gradually, therefore the boundaries of a landing field should be low and not obstructed by obstacles.

A landing field otherwise should be very accessible to a large city. If an adequate landing field is a number of miles in distance and a half hour or more in time from the business section of the city, the time gained by air travel is lost at the beginning and the end of the flight and no particular time is effected.

HAD TO CLOSE FIELD

A suitable landing field should not be in the line of houses, residential or other development. This has been very well demonstrated by McCook Field in the city of Dayton, Ohio. McCook Field was first laid out. It was in the center of the city. It has since been entirely surrounded by the city and other places therefrom has been a constant increase in the number of houses and residents of the city. It has been found necessary to close McCook Field and open a new station.

BETTY ALDEN'S SOCIETY COMMENT

Miss Helen Willis Takes Part in Essex County
Club Tennis

MISS HELEN WILLIS, TENNIS star supreme, was the scene of a smartness yesterday at the Essex County Club tournament. Certainly she had dipped into some of those "bosons" she brought home from Paris filled with exciting frocks and accessories. The result was charming. From the topmost dent in her bluish velvet chapeau, in the tips of her high heeled shoes, she was smart simplicity at its utmost. Observing Madame Mole's deers, Miss Willis wore a sweater of soft rose, a white silk pleated frock, a hat that molded the head snugly, and for ornaments pearl ear studs and a strand of two of the same gleaming things about her throat.

SO DEMURELY AND QUIETLY does this famous young girl move about that she passes in the throng almost unperceived. When not on the courts herself she seeks a quiet corner of the shady club veranda, there to do a bit of sketching or observe the tennis from an inconspicuous vantage point. In the morning, wearing crisp and spotless white, she escorted the gallery with some superb tennis. In the afternoon she was free to roam at will, but she roamed only between the clubhouse, the courts and the tiny house that passes for tennis headquarters during the tournament.

AT HEADQUARTERS SHE chatted with Mrs. William Endicott. This stunning Titian-haired young matron, a club director of the tournament, was particularly good to look upon the opening day. Her costume was unashamedly white. Her hat of pale orchid exactly matched her frock in tint, and a jacket of heavy oriental silk revealed an infinitesimal oval motif in the silken embroidery. Mrs. Endicott is a tennis player of the first magnitude and is just back from a round of matches at Agawam and Malden.

IT WAS A PRETTY DAY! THE sky was blue. The sun was bright. The greenward like velvet. And a brick little breeze tempered Old Sol's rays. Madame and Mademoiselle each shook out her newest and most fetching parasol. They bloomed on the topmost line of the stands like so many giant umbrellas. Mrs. Francis Bacon Lettbridge unfurled a smart many colored tapestry sunshade over her white hat and tan silk frock with touches of golden brown.

MRS. URIEL HASKELL CROCKFORD wore the modern equivalent of the "coat of many colors." Her silk frock was a garden print, a mélange of red, green, tones and sapphires and her lighorn hat was lanked in blossoms to match. Mrs. Francis Cummings, after a morning on the courts, came out for the afternoon as an emerald. In sky blue silk, Mrs. Bayard Tucker wore a frock that combined lavender and soft rose in smart degrees. Her hat was of the snug variety she affects and her silk frock showed the amaranth gleam.

LACKING A SUNSHADE AT the moment, there were many perfect substitutes in the wide shady hats that waved flexible brims to every breeze. Hair of a becoming ingenueness in proportion to the width of their brims. Miss Betty Moulton's enormous transparent hat was extremely effective above her sweetly pensive blue eyes and golden brown locks. Miss Barbara Fort's gleam of the bright dark eyes and red cheeks, wore a wide hat of rough straw, the garden variety glorified for an occasion. Miss Helen Mosley wore a wide and flexible array of bright red ribbon and to match her trim sports frock of garnet red.

MISS DOROTHY BATCHELDER'S wide purple hat was stunning. Miss Dattoleider achieved an effect by the daring use of deep pansy purple and bright red. Her hat, shoes and narrow belt were of purple, against smart print of red on white in small geometric design. With her dark eyes and slender build she carried it off amazingly well. Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Gardner with their son, Dennis, were in the very smart company for the tennis. Mrs. Boardman, devotee of the snugly fitting felt, wore a trim brown hat with a bow. French handmade silk frocks in bold de rose.

A Story of Sylvia Bryant, Stenographer, Among the Money Crowd

Joyce Ackerman, society woman and wife of Vance Ackerman, a rich broker, appeals to a mutual friend, Alexander Ladd, a successful lawyer, to help her in her battle with Margot Ladd, who has won her husband's affections. Ladd proposes that Mrs. Ackerman engage Sylvia Bryant, his stenographer, a beautiful and charming young girl, as her social secretary. Mrs. Ackerman agrees and Ladd summons Sylvia.

CHAPTER I

LADD introduced Sylvia to Joyce Ackerman. "Mrs. Ackerman is in the market to engage a bright young woman as her social secretary and I took it upon myself to select you for the place," he said.

"There was no personal warmth of approval in his voice; it was as though he had merely stated a fact. Sylvia felt herself get on edge. She was not, exactly, a useful machine to be endorsed."

"I don't know that I'm exceptionally bright," she said to Joyce. "And I've certainly had no experience that would fit me to be anybody's social secretary."

Joyce smiled reassuringly. "I'm sure you'll learn quickly. Instinctively, Sylvia liked her. "It is office work?"

Ladd motioned her to a chair. "No, you'll be obliged to live in Mrs. Ackerman's home," he said. "You'll look after her correspondence, attend to her appointments and make your own generally useful in whatever way she requires. How much are you being paid now?"

"Thirty dollars a week."

"Mrs. Ackerman will pay you the same salary and in addition you'll have free board and room. You will be able to save money and, more important, you will come into intimate contact with a cultured social life that will be worth far more than money to you. It isn't likely you'll get such an opportunity as this again as long as you live."

Sylvia was conscious, suddenly, of some hidden tension in the air, some carefully concealed disturbance. Mrs. Ackerman, she recalled, had been under an emotional strain when she arrived—had said she needed help, advice—desperately.

"It was awfully good of you, Mr. Ladd, to suggest me for the position," she said politely. "Still, I'm afraid I haven't the experience. Besides, I'm quite well satisfied here."

"Nonsense!" he returned.

Joyce Ackerman smiled a bit ruefully. "I should like to have you, Miss Bryant. I think we could get on together." At the same time Sylvia was entirely certain that the proffered job did not appeal to her. It meant living away from home and with strangers. Probably the status would be that of an elevated domestic servant.

"I'm enjoying work for you, Mrs. Ackerman," she said. "But I wouldn't care to take a position in a private home. I'm sorry."

Ladd's eyes bored at her like keen gimlets. "Now, I'll be asked to go."

"Of course, I would want to see you. I'm sure you'll be able to argue with anyone as intelligent as Sylvia Bryant. Sylvia felt her face color a little. Just before she was to leave, she was called to the telephone and occupying a position of leadership in the household, she was ready to say she would resign, or she could presume to order her private life. She was a stubborn independence, wedded up in her own way of thinking, and she was not to be moved from her position.

"You see, Alexander," Joyce said, "when they move about, they are as simple as you thought."

"Yes, very much. A lot of change, then, Alexander. But I could see that she doesn't like you."

"No?" He seemed a little surprised. "Her feelings about me must not be at all on my way or under. I must have been the one of her bosses. But I'm glad you're satisfied with her."

"Little good it will do, however. He smiled tolerantly. "Of course, she's going to take the place. Now you run along home and try not to worry. I'll have Miss Bryant come and you can make your own arrangements for her coming with you on the day or so."

"But who refused the position?" "I know she did—and that you may be interested in that the first time I've had any of my own. I'll be a quiet while," he smiled. "I can't tell her yet away with it for a matter of principle. But seriously, I think she's ideal for the task in hand and I'm sure she'll be satisfactory. I'll have a little talk with her presently."

Later in the afternoon Sylvia was again summoned to Ladd's office. He made no immediate reference to the Ackerman position but went straight to work in discussing, slowly, the new turn in Page 13, Column 4.

GIRL, 16, VICTIM OF 'PHANTOM STABBER'

BRIDGEPORT, July 26 (A.P.)—Miss Ginepro, sixteen, a Summer student at Central High School, was stabbed in the left breast while on her way to school today.

The "phantom stabber," who has been under cover for several months, is blamed for the attack. He used a long, slender weapon like a hairpin or large needle. As on every previous occasion, he succeeded in escaping.

More than a score of women and girls have been attacked by the phantom stabber, and in each case he has taken to his heels after the first lunge and without attempting to do further harm.

Miss Ginepro, bleeding from the left breast, staggered into the high school and told what happened. She was immediately rushed to the hospital for treatment and afterwards taken home.

U.S. Navy Plans Huge Air Fleet

Every Girl to Carry Planes

Vast Project Is Launched to Provide Sky Screen for Craft on Water

Washington, July 26 (A.P.)—A vast screen of airplanes for the American fleet even when battling far from home waters is the end toward which naval experts now are working.

Every fighting ship will carry its quota of planes to supplement those landing on the fleet or aircraft carriers which will be formed with the coming into commission of the Lexington and Saratoga.

With even the most conservative of old navy men realizing that the first task in the sea battle of the future will be that of clearing the air of enemy planes, experts picture such a clearing of the surface before something like this:

With contact established with the enemy there would arise from each American battleship cruiser, destroyer and submarine plane after plane until several hundred were soaring over the surface.

Visualizing battle. Augmenting these would come the combat planes and bombers from the aircraft carrying fleet, numbering hundreds more. Battle between the opposing air forces would be waged over the track of sea separating the surface fleets.

The air force winning to victory, naval experts say, would ensure victory for its surface fleet unless there was an overwhelming preponderance of numbers against it. These experts declare that without aircraft to spot its shots and correct the fire to bear directly on the enemy ships, a fleet would have little chance against another of anything like equal strength having air forces in action for that purpose.

Some American naval experts contend that the American navy now is short five years ahead of any other in the matter of equipping its fighting craft with planes.

They say this is the result of 14 years of experiments, beginning with a forecast deck runway on the old USS Pennsylvania, now at Pittsburgh, and leading to the revolving catapult now in use, the secret of which is carefully guarded.

ENVY OF FOREIGNERS. Foreign nations regard this development of American naval aviation as an important factor. It has been revealed that four of them have formally offered to exchange some of their own secrets of warship design for full information about the catapult. Their offers were declined.

The sixteen American battleships now permitted under the naval limitation treaty carry four planes each while a similar number are carried by the ten light cruisers of the fleet.

Each battleship and each cruiser is equipped with two or three revolving catapults. The advantage or which is that less maneuvering of the ship is necessary to get the planes into the wind for take-off.

South is the dealer. What is the proper bidding and play?

In the next issue Mr. Whitehead will explain the salient points in the bidding and play of the above hand. Fill out your own chart and compare it with his method.

These hands must not be bid or played "Double Dummy," i. e., although all four hands were exposed.

Yesterday's Hand as Played by Mr. Whitehead

Sale Point of the Bidding Dealer's rebid of Hearts is sound, as his own hand is a temporary one which he bid four Diamonds, but with such opponents bidding, East considers it better to rely on his hand to save game. A business double, while alluring, does not seem advisable.

Sale Point of the Play Trick 2 and 3. At Trick 2 West sees that the only hope for an other trick is that East's Ace of Clubs played at Trick 2 was a singleton. If it was from an Ace, the King will be trumped by Declarer. East therefore trump his partner's good Diamond at Trick 3 and at Trick 4 leads the Club which defeats the contract.

Mr. Whitehead will answer questions concerning your Bridge problems. Write in care of this paper, enclosing a half-cent stamped envelope.

SHE'S WAITING AT THE CHURCH

Pall River, July 26—A wedding gown splashed here and there with a tear stain and a wilted bride went on and on, followed by a group of formally faced relatives comprised a wedding party of Mrs. Mabel Berube of No. 1645 Rodman street.

The wedding party went to the church for Miss Berube yesterday at St. John Baptist Church, but instead they only rang the Angelus, the trouble being that her intended husband, Stanley Burles of No. 1212 Rodman street, a short distance away, failed to appear.

Stanley left his boarding house yesterday, but did not say anything about a wedding or where he was going. He was missing yet.

The Three Musketeers

D'Artagnan's interview with M. de Treville was interrupted by the arrival of Athos, Porthos and Aramis, three intrepid musketeers who had been involved in the quarrel with the guards. M. de Treville was enraged that the guards had won. D'Artagnan thought he had never seen such heroes as these three.

By Alexandre Dumas

M. de Treville promised him an appointment in another regiment, where he could serve his apprenticeship before becoming a musketeer. Just then D'Artagnan saw outside the man who had insulted him at Moulins. He dashed from the room, ran into Athos on the stairs and burst his arm, which was wounded.

REVUE OPENS '12 MILES OUT' AT TREMONT AT STATE

The name of George Kelly, author of such gems of the theatre as "The Show Off" and "Crazy's Wife," prominently displayed on the playbill of the new Rustle Stewart revue, "A La Carte," may have accounted in measure for the large and good humored audience that packed the Tremont to attend the first night of another season of the drama.

Or perhaps it was simply a gathering of many play hungry persons whose appetites for the favours of revue were whetted by the fasting imposed by darkened houses during the past weeks of Summer vacation.

"A La Carte" boasts no particular "star," but the favorites last night were the vaudeville team of the Yvonne and Rose King who cavorted mainly in the lost approved style of the Gay Nineties. Herman Harfield did more than a full-sized chore introducing everybody and turning a trick or two himself when the occasion seemed to demand it.

Harriet Foster danced, the Giersdorf Sisters crooned their three-part songs, Bobbie Arnet strutted, Little Billy buck-danced prodigiously, Marion Hamilton seemed able to do a bit of everything, and Jay Vale related a smooth baritone tale.

Leo Carrillo Heads Smart Bill at Keith's Theatre

Leo Carrillo is entertaining the audience at Keith's this week. His stories are gems and his Italian interpretation of a baseball game is superb, as is his rendition of Edgar Guevara's "Home." His by-play with a Chinese in one of the orchestra boxes added the personal, intimate, human nature touch.

Five Bay State girls, Helen Choate, Marion Wise, Hazel Gillies, Or Jacobo and Marie Murray, dignified, sedate but clever singers, harmonizers and accompanists, also pleased the solo, "The Russian Lullaby," in one of their best jewels.

Johnny Sully seems tireless. He is with Marjell Thomas in a mad dancing and singing act. There was just enough slap stick to the act to make it more palatable.

Richard Keane as Urish Prep, Cardinal Wolsey and Gaspard the Miser gives a real dramatic touch to the program.

Others on the splendid bill are Wilson and Aubrey, comedy gymnasts in a funny burlesque not content. Cronin and Hart, Block and Sully, the Mercers with Adeline Benson and Charles Embley, and the Steel Trio.

eyes afloat, and by other expressions of comical cowardice, wins a chuckle or two all by himself.

"In a word, "Twelve Miles Out" is a highly satisfactory entertainment. And if you want to be more serious about it, you might go so far as to call it an "opus" of the burlesque. Why not?

On State stage Phil Spitalny and his musical associates play a Broadway program in which a telephone solo and a monologue by Bob Nelson are the high spots.

ARBuckle IS HIT PLAN TO FILM 'NOAH'S ARK' AT ORPHEUM

Rebecca "Patty" Arbuckle, famous screen comedian, was greeted with hearty acclaim by a capacity audience of Loew's Orpheum yesterday. His monologue is a screen and his clowning with Bert Walton, another comedian on the bill, brought down the house.

Bert Walton, "The International Cyclist," besides mixing it up with "Patty," also does a fast, witty monologue. Walton could easily hold down the headline spot on any bill. Franklin D'Amore scored heavily with his "Vandeville Surprise," an entertaining turn with Jack Lane and Ethel Truesdale.

The feature film this week, "The Unknown," a strange mystery tale revolving about a circus, Lon Chaney is seen in another of his masterful roles as an amputee shadow freak.

good looking husband's promise be a good boy, Edna Murphy co-starring with Mr. Hartigan 'WUOL Youth,' another Hollywood story of deeper love, to be produced by Dallas Fitzgerald.

REGINALD DENNEY is in the market for a prize fight story. He is aiming at "Cashed Byron's Profession," George Bernard Shaw's famous story of a pugilist. In case he cannot get Shaw's permission to film "Cashed Byron's Profession" he will compromise with another prize fight story with Fred Newmeyer directing. I should not be surprised if Denney persuaded Mr. Shaw, while in England, to part with the screen rights to this story.

Successful Cakes "You Said It, Marceline!"

Call for Great Deal of Care

By MARTHA LEE
CAKES, like salads, are often made best by those who are just getting on their feet in the kitchen. They are a good deal of work, and those who excel them are frequently the fruit of long endeavor, study and experiment.

Being scientifically minded today, we prefer working by knowledge to working by chance, and so search exhaustively for new ways of preparing cakes. The simplest cake, to be delicious, must be made with high quality ingredients. The flour should be sifted, the sugar a pure white, the butter a good quality, and the eggs fresh. The temperature of the kitchen should be just right, and the cake should be baked in a moderate oven. More elaborate and expensive cakes require still more care. When they are made, the result is often a great deal of disappointment. When they are made, the result is often a great deal of disappointment.

MANY GIRLS have many love affairs, yet even as they never developed any sense of HUMOR, they are as HEARTBROKEN over the FIFTH as over the FIRST.

To have one's head CRACKED five times through the same process would suggest Mental WEAKNESS. Yet broken HEARTS seem often a source of PRIDE to their owners.

For a WOMAN in love cannot REASON. She cannot even see STRAIGHT. If one were to tell her "this man was a BRICK, and another BRICK had STRUCK him she'd get WILD.

Yet THAT is the POSITION. Men are about as DIFFERENT as bricks. Another thing—A CHILD LOVES MANY to build a HOUSE, but a woman in LOVE expects a KIDNAPING out of one MAN.

On Pity the Poor Brick

Dr. Reed Tells of Sleeplessness and Indigestion

By Chas. A. L. Reed, M. D., Former President of the American Medical Association.

Now, the large majority of this class of sufferers have no idea that there is anything wrong with their digestion. They have no pain and, perhaps, no discomfort of any kind, and if their doctor asks them if they have any indigestion, they deny it. They are not aware of anything of the kind. They are likely to be very healthy and to have a good deal of energy to get rid of during their sleepless hours. This is a sign that they are not as it should be. They are likely to be very healthy and to have a good deal of energy to get rid of during their sleepless hours. This is a sign that they are not as it should be.

Indigestion is latent and the patient does not know why he cannot sleep. We are assured by Creighton, an authority on the subject, that it takes a very slight degree of indigestion to spoil the sleep. The most important, accompanying sleep in the drawing off from the body of a considerable proportion of the blood which circulates in it. The day, then, may not be actually the cause of sleep but sleep cannot occur without it. Anything, therefore, that obstructs the descent of the blood from the brain will cause sleeplessness. A heavily loaded stomach, or a stomach which is not properly emptied, will cause sleeplessness.

Face Powder Should Always Match the Skin

By MARIA JERITZA
Prima Donna of the Metropolitan Opera Company and One of the Most Beautiful Women of the Day.

DEAR to the feminine heart is the subject of face powder. It is a subject which is of great importance to the woman who wishes to be beautiful. It is a subject which is of great importance to the woman who wishes to be beautiful. It is a subject which is of great importance to the woman who wishes to be beautiful.

face powder is not likely to improve your complexion, no matter how good a skin powder-powder. It is well to remember, however, that powder is drying—so if you have a natural skin which is not too dry, it is well to use a little powder. There are various grades of good face powder. Some are heavier in consistency than others. If your skin is dry and delicate, choose a powder light in consistency. Keep experimenting until you find a powder that agrees with your skin—then use it exclusively.

under artificial light. Or her day time shade mixed with a little lavender powder may prove best. Let a brunette who likes to use racial or peach powder during the day try the effect of a more yellowish powder at night.

NATIONAL POLICIES OF THE HEARST NEWSPAPERS

1. An agreement of English-speaking peoples to preserve peace among themselves and promote the peace of the world.
2. A constitutional amendment to provide for the election of United States Senators in numbers proportionate to the population of each State, but no State to have less than two Senators. A reapportionment of Congressional representation immediate.

3. After every census, or in case of the failure of Congress so to act, to make the apportionment automatic at the end of the next Congressional session, the proportion of population for each representative in each case to be that of the existing Congress.
4. A separate Department of the Army, of the Navy and of the Air Forces, all united under a Secretary of National Defense.

5. Federal action to the limit of Federal Government powers to abolish literacy among the people of the United States, and the creation of a Secretary of Education.
6. Necessary measures to secure the election of Congress in November and its installation on the 1st of January following, and the inauguration of a President on the 1st of January immediately following his election in November.

Anti-Saloon League Is Not Entitled to Flout the Law

If any great industrial corporation or any institution of special interest of any kind had maintained in Washington the lobby that the Anti-Saloon League has maintained, and if it had attempted to coerce Congressmen and public officials in this league has done, that corporation or institution would be indicted and prosecuted, and its responsible officials jailed.

There is no reason why the Anti-Saloon League should be an exception. If it can establish a precedent of coercion of this kind, other institutions will follow.

If the Anti-Saloon League can take charge of the prohibition unit and enforcement of prohibition laws, why cannot corporations interested in the tariff take charge of the appointment of customs officials and the administration of the customs laws?

Why cannot the oil interests dictate the appointment of all officials in the Department of the Interior who have to do with the leasing of public lands?

Anton J. Cermak, president of Board of Cook County Commissioners (Chicago) has introduced a resolution calling upon the Attorney-General of the United States to immediately institute a Federal action against the Anti-Saloon League, as a body, and its officers and officials, as individuals, for violation of Section 37 of the criminal code of the United States, forbidding any overt act against the United States.

President Cermak's resolution lists the league's use of a $50,000,000 propaganda fund to influence elections, the league's misuse of the United States franking privileges for private propaganda through the mails, its payments to representatives in Congress under the guise of honorariums, its intimidation of officials, its threatening of President Coolidge, its intimidation of officials with appointive power, its employment of paid spies to shadow the President, Congressmen, judges and others with a view to intimidating them, its illegal use of $10,000 of government money.

The Anti-Saloon League is not above the law any more than any other individual or other organization. If the Attorney-General finds that its actions have taken it outside the pale of the law, he should make an example of it.

Moreover, we are soon going to see whether Congress has the courage to protect its interests and maintain its self-respect.

From Lowell to the Sea

A Navigable Merrimack

The suggestion of a public-spirited citizen of Cambridge that industrial conditions in the Merrimack Valley would be improved if the river which turns more spindles than any other in the world were made navigable will occasion some interest in the larger communities of the valley, but it is not likely to arouse enthusiasm.

Not, at least, right away.

Haverhill, Lawrence, Lowell and Manchester have heard something like this before, and not once but often. Merrimack Valley delegates have been sent to deeper waterways conventions; there was, once upon a time, a more or less "permanent" organization, with no other reason for existence than bringing ships up from Newburyport, more than upon the proposal has been carried as far as Washington and Army engineers have come, investigated, and in due course reported. But nothing has ever come of it.

"If the railroad now serving that section is not giving satisfactory service," Mr. Henry J. Roper says, "one reason is that it is overburdened with heavy, bulky, cheap freight that can and should be carried by water. The Merrimack Valley needs a waterway simply to divide the traffic, the water to carry low-grade commodities that should have low rates and the railroad to carry the high-grade freight that can afford to pay the higher rates."

"The waterway, by obtaining for manufacturers at a low rate such raw material as lumber, cotton, wool and coal, would, in turn, create traffic whose later transportation at higher rates gives the railroad large returns."

"We not only want to keep our industries, and have them prosperous, but we should be willing to consider any project that will be an inducement for other industries to locate here. We must increase our advantages as a matter of self-defense."

There was a time when the Merrimack and its canal formed the principal thoroughfare for the carrying of not only freight but passengers. The New Hampshire Patriot of March 19, 1816, carried the card of John L. Sullivan, agent of the Merrimack Boating Company, and Samuel Butters, clerk at Concord Lower Landing, announcing that "every necessary preparation is making to commence the carrying of goods between Boston and Concord by the company boats as soon as the season will permit."

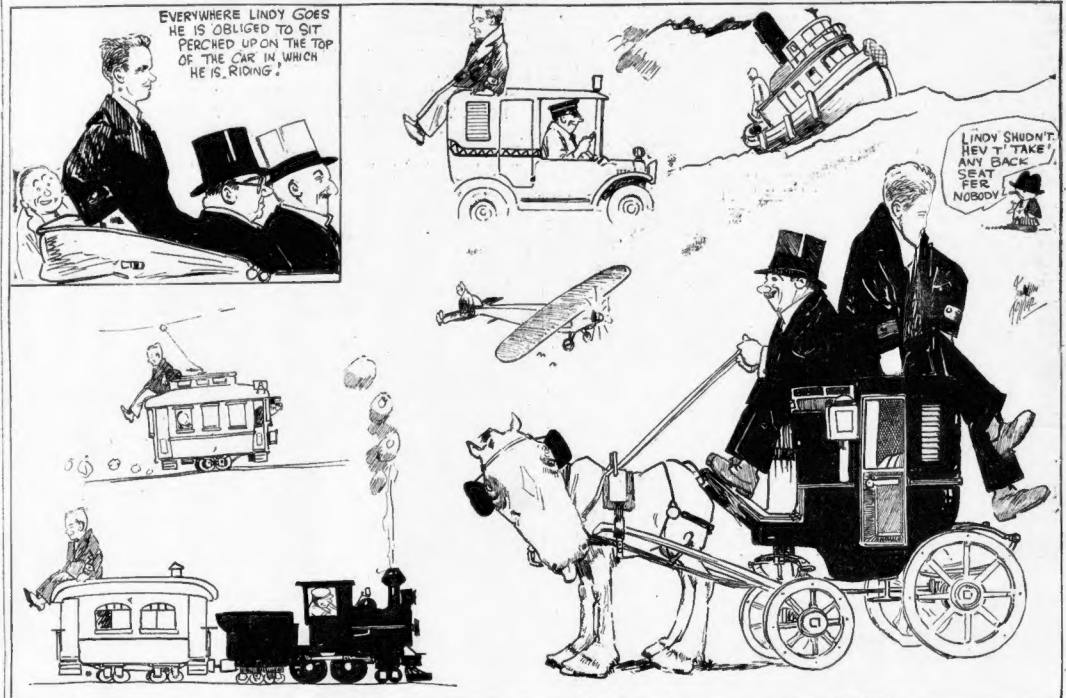

With the coming of the railroad the waterways, left to decay, became worthless. From time to time there has been renewed talk of making the Merrimack navigable. Fifteen years ago, the Massachusetts Legislature authorized the appointment of a "Merrimack Valley Waterway Board." Their report recommended an 18-foot channel from Lowell to the sea, an appropriation of $1,000,000 by the Legislature and the solicitation of help from Congress.

Nothing came of it because, in addition to the probable cost of such an undertaking, there was a time there has been centering about the possible disturbance of power rights between Haverhill and Lowell.

The same "legal questions" probably exist today. The Merrimack may be made navigable some day, but quite likely only when (1) the improvement is demanded by the merchants of the Valley, acting in concert, or (2) the railroad and the textile interests decide that a navigable Merrimack is one of the things THEY need.

COUNTRIES MADE BY THEIR MEN

By DR. FRANK CRANE

PEOPLE who pile up billion-dollar fortunes in the steel business, in banking, in automobiles and otherwise are supposed to be the greatest addenda to the wealth of the country.

Some years ago, however, John Ruskin wrote about "The Veins of Wealth" in an article in which he held that the true wealth of the nation consisted not in the yellow veins of gold running through the earth, but in the blue veins of human blood.

In other words, men were worth more to a country than natural resources.

Had the Pilgrim fathers, who landed on the bleak shores of New England some years ago landed in Manila, the Philippines would by this time have been as prosperous as Massachusetts. Take all the Philippines and transfer them to New England and in their stead put New Englanders in the Philippine Islands, in a short time New England would be devastated and the Philippines prosperous.

It is men who make the country.

With this in view we consider Senora Esperidiana Chavez, 89 years of age, of Los Angeles, rocking the cradle of her one hundred and sixty-second direct descendant. She has nine daughters and two sons and they are all prolific.

Mrs. Chavez has therefore added to the country more wealth than that of John D. Rockefeller.

Property has to be cared for and property rights to be respected, but the most inestimable treasure of the land is its human beings.

France is supposed to be decadent because the death rate piles up and the birth rate is decreasing. On the contrary, it is faced by prolific Germany with a steadily increasing population.

The most important power in the earth is its out-producing power.

This, in the end, wins more battles than armies or battle-ships.

The health and vigor of a nation is a better defense to that nation than armies and equipment. No matter how many tools you have, it takes men to use them.

No matter how marvelous and complete is a locomotive, it is valueless without an expert engineer. No matter how good your airplane, you have to have a Lindbergh to make it a success.

In the end, it is always the human factor, and men do well to conserve life above all other things.

BOSTON DAY-BY-DAY

MARKET sales are starting all over town. Down on Salem street, Hanover and along Endicott and North streets prices are low, too. Tight in the midst of huge meat warehouses, laden leather trucks and fish stalls one can step into a store to purchase anything wearable.

Out on the streets are a few vendors carrying their goods in baskets. One catches a prospect and opens his bag to display socks, the shirts, the Bible, Shakespeares and dime novels. Everything is guaranteed "at a great saving."

In one block in this district all the clothes for baby to grandmother can be bought. Couples marrying can purchase all their furniture and household goods next door to where they obtained their clothes and had their bridal photograph made. Up stairs a flight, the pawnshop brokers a light for those whose finances are low.

Complete materials for booting, boots and beach cottages can be bought in this block. Automobile clothes and paste jewels can be hired for a big party. This block receives no advertising, yet it compares with the "floating hotels."

When the Summer is over what becomes of all the straw hats left in the street? If the manager is so perfumed and lucky he only has a dozen hats left over. If that many, The rest are thrown out after the manager has picked out a couple of good ones for next season around the garden. No marketman has ever been caught buying a straw hat yet.

Somewhere along the length of Union street is a small two-story restaurant. The first story holds the waitress behind the counter and about four stools. Just above her head is the second story, containing what is apparently a large packing box containing a cow and stove.
